

Testimony of Farmer Kooyi The Lord Reigns Over All

I, Bro Kooyi, come from the Church in Pinghe where your pastor visited in March this year. I am a farmer, I plant and pack pomelo. Morn church, our Lord reigns in this uncertain world with uncertain economic and environmental times disrupted by earthquakes, tsunamis, typhoons and so on.

Beloved, our Lord reigns over all - the world as well as His Church. We do not just get convicted when we are in church singing hymns, thanksgiving songs and hearing a good sermon only. Our God cannot be just a Sunday God. He is either the God of your whole life or He is not your Lord at all. Brothers & sister, our Lord reigns in our hearts, hallelujah! Hallelujah! He is the God of our lives. Yes, in these hard times, let's stay united among the brethren and the church of Christ must stay united.

With this concept, I packed these "Hi Praise" pomelos you see them in your church this morning. No commercial, I can directly and able to bless the individual consumer or groups such as the Christian churches with leaders and pastor like David Kerk who also want to bless God's people. This is the 17th container I shipped to Singapore. All my past 16 containers arrived 2 or 3 days late and no insurance company wants to insure cargo containers on the ship. This 17th container, despite Typhoon Ketsana, arrived in Singapore on 29th sept, a day earlier from the expected arrival date. Hallelujah, our Lord reigns over "Ketsana" and "rode on the typhoon" to land on Singapore safely and we are blessed with these crunchy pomelos. I understand your pastor has been invited by the Church in Pinghe to minister to brethren & leaders next month. I look forward to meet some of you at my pomelo plantation.

God bless. Shall we sing this song "Our Lord Reigns!"

Blessings
